

Arab ICT Union (AICTU) is a non-profit organization that will keep expanding to be a leader in harnessing ICT toward the broad-based development needs of local communities in the Arab region. Recognizing the opportunities that exist for cooperation, the pooling of resources, and the sharing of best practices, an alliance was formed linking the preeminent ICT industry association from the region's key ICT producing countries. This alliance – the Arab Union, was formed in the Kingdom of Bahrain in 2018. Founding members include the ICT associations of Bahrain, Egypt, Jordan, Morocco, and Kuwait. Followed by Palestine, Lebanon, and Tunisia who have joined the organization by bringing the total number of members to 8 countries.
